

You know you've grown up when Dr Martens have moved from your wardrobe to your portfolio.

Back in the day, you were so cool. A young fashion disrupter. Today, you've simmered down a fair bit, but you've still got that beloved pair of Dr Martens in your wardrobe. Well, perhaps it's about time you took another look at them and reminded yourself what a good investment they've been.

Right now, you can invest in the Elevation Capital Global Shares Fund and start investing in similar iconic brands you've loved over many years. We invest in well-known international companies that are part of your everyday life.

Aside from Dr Martens, the fund also holds investments in companies like Swatch, Christian Dior, Spotify and Twitter.

With a net return of +11.49% per annum over the last 5 years* you can get started with an initial investment of just $100 and $25 a month. Now, where's that 80's orange Swatch you had?
