M RNINGSTAR

Sustainability Analysis - Morningstar Manager Research

Published as of 29 March 2024

Elevation Capital Global Shares Fund has several promising attributes that may appeal to sustainability-focused investors.

This fund has a Morningstar Sustainability Rating of 5 globes, indicating that the ESG risk of holdings in its portfolio is rather low relative to those of its peers in the Morningstar Global Equity Mid/Small Cap category. ESG risk provides investors with a signal that reflects to what degree their investments are exposed to risks related to material ESG issues, including climate change, biodiversity, product safety, community relations, data privacy and security, bribery and corruption, and corporate governance, that are not sufficiently managed. ESG risk differs from impact, which is about seeking positive environmental and social outcomes.

One key area of strength for Elevation Capital Global Shares Fund is its low Morningstar Portfolio Carbon Risk Score of 1.67 and very low fossil fuel exposure over the past 12 months, which earns it the Morningstar Low Carbon Designation. Thus, the companies held in the portfolio are in general alignment with the transition to a low-carbon economy.

One potential issue for a sustainability-focused investor is that Elevation Capital Global Shares Fund doesn't have an ESG-focused mandate. A fund with an ESG-focused mandate would have a higher probability to drive positive ESG outcomes.

The fund has a modest level of exposure (3.95%) to companies with high or severe controversies. Companies with controversies are involved in incidents such as corruption, employee abuses, and that pose some degree of business risks to the company. Severe and high controversies can have significant financial repercussions, ranging from legal penalties to consumer boycotts. In addition, they controversies can damage the reputation of both companies themselves and their shareholders.

Fund Performance (Net & Gross) vs. NZ CPI+5% (Gross) & FTSE All World Index (Net Return)

For comparative purposes we have detailed two informational benchmarks we consider relevant to underlying (and prospective) investors in the Global Shares Fund. These are NZ CPI + 5% per annum (Gross Return) which we believe highlights to investors whether we are preserving and growing their real purchasing power overtime and the FTSE All World Index (Net Return) in NZD terms*. It is important to consider that our portfolio does not track or follow any index (refer the Funds Active Share statistics on page 4), and we consistently operate with conservative cash levels. We would also highlight that these two informational benchmarks are not provided for performance fee calculations as there are no performance fees charged or payable within/by the Fund.

The TER should reflect the past record, and should not be an estimate for the present or future. In other words, the TER is the annual percentage reduction in investor returns that would result from operating costs if markets were to remain flat and the fund's portfolio were to be held and not traded during a period.

'Independent Thinking - Disciplined Investing'

INDEPENDENT THINKING

[In-de-pend-ent Think-ing] indápendant THiNkiNG verb

Is essential to long-term investment success. We are often contrarian and do not pay attention to index compositions when making investment decisions. We believe that when you're several thousand miles away from Wall Street in a different nation, it's easier to be independent and buy the things that other people are selling, and sell the things that other people are buying.

DISCIPLINED INVESTING

[Dis-ci-plined In-vest-ing] disciplinad inves'ting verb

The market presents opportunities every day, but disciplined investing is as much about the opportunities you do not take. We also believe that cash is sometimes the most attractive investment.
